K-2SO

K-2SO is a KX-model enforcer droid who has been reprogrammed to serve our cause. While his size and appearance have alarmed some rebel personnel, he has proved valuable on many missions.

Arakyd Industries created the KX line to provide Imperial facilities with more efficient security. Unlike most fourth-degree droids, the KX model was programmed to speak and interact with organic beings, though it isn't particularly good at doing so when compared with a protocol droid. KX droids can handle a range of tasks, from communicating with superiors and escorting visitors to defending key personnel and neutralizing targets.

KX droids have built-in behavioral inhibitors and fail-safes in their memory banks; K-2SO may be the only example of one that's been successfully reprogrammed. This makes him ideal for infiltrating bases or prisons. Imperial personnel are unlikely to be surprised by his presence even in normally restricted areas.
